

WE NOMINATE

Michael Charles Kopliner, 63-year old Princetonian, who this week—some 41 years after he first saw Nassau Street and following 37 years of devoted service to Town and Gown—is courageously waging a losing battle for his life. A university procter since the fall of 1923 and for the past 15 years head of the non-uniformed force responsible for maintaining order on the University Campus, Kopliner, possibly better than any other mortal Princetonian, qualifies as a "living legend." For literally 1,000's of Princeton alumni scattered throughout the world, mention of "Mike" stirs memories of a slouchy felt hat, a near-incredible capacity for recalling details and a rare understanding of undergraduate foibles.

Twice in recent weeks Kopliner's career, spanning the administrations of three university presidents (Hibben, Dodds, Goheen) and linking the somnolent college town of the 1920's with traffic-throttled Princeton Today, has been understandably highlighted in university publications. Both the Princeton Alumni Weekly and year-old University have emphasized "The World of the 'Campus Cop'", the world in which the energetic Kopliner "spends time, occasionally months of it, rescuing some perfectly normal student who, in a moment of ebullience of unexplainable perversity, has done something foolish."

These campus-oriented accounts, as excellent and searching as they were, failed to point up Kopliner's many contributions to the Borough, and to the Princeton Area, in an infinite number of ways. This native of Elmhurst, N. Y., the son of a pressman, served along the Mexican Border in 1916. A brief interval with the Brooklyn Rapid Transit preceded his return to wartime duty with the 27th Infantry Division. He spent well over a year in Europe, earned three battle stars and re-enlisted in 1919 to become sergeant instructor in the Army's Princeton ROTC Unit.

Kopliner, tremendously proud of the fact that his two sons are members of the Princeton Borough and Township Police Departments and still concerned with Robert F. Goheen's development as a squash racquets enthusiast, lost little time in projecting himself into local affairs, including politics, service organizations and athletics. In 1926 he pitched a no-hit, no-run game for a nondescript Princeton nine; in 1933 he managed the Princeton baseball team that carried off the title in the Central Jersey League; and, shortly after World War II, gave his much younger opponent a stiff run for top honors in the initial Princeton tennis championships.

A confirmed Democrat for as long as he can remember, and extremely pleased with the accomplishments of a one-time Princetonian, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, Kopliner served a three-year term as a member of Borough Council and won plaudits for his work as first chairman in 1945-46 of the Veterans' Welfare Committee. His other outside interests are indicative of the scope of his enthusiasm for things that are worthwhile: direction of both the Playground Program and Boy Scout activities, membership in the First Aid Unit, insistence upon publicly maintained recreational facilities, and participation in youth ventures sponsored either by the Knights of Columbus or American Legion.

For discharging his difficult, and frequently thankless, duties in a manner that has merited the respect of all segments of Princeton; for believing implicitly in the potential of oncoming generations; for understanding — better than most parents — the folkways of "young-adult delinquents"; he is our nominee for

AND THE LIVING IS EASY
Summertime in Princeton. When the warm, green summer days come, Princeton takes off its coat and tie and becomes again what it was once upon a time: a pleasant country town devoted to pleasant country pleasures.

Urban renewal and sewers, traffic problems and sidewalks continue to fill the agenda of Borough and Township governing bodies, but the constituents have taken to the woods where they may be found any warm evening, dancing at a square dance, swimming in clam juice at a clam-bake or gorging on home-made cake at a firemen's fair.

This week in Rocky Hill, the 50 members of Rocky Hill Fire Company Number One are welcoming guests to their 37th annual Fireman's Fair being held at the fairgrounds, intersection of Crescent Avenue and Mt. Lucas Road this Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Colored lights swing from tent to tent, and by their light fair-goers play games, try their skill at tossing balls at a target, or just kibitz while they work over a hot-dog. There's steaming hot coffee, and a variety of sandwiches, and cakes baked by the members of the Ladies Auxiliary.

The kids ride on an old fire-engine that hasn't put out a bonfire for 20 years, and the older youngsters dance on a platform to Walt Wengryn's orchestra. "It some boy has a real nice

The Winners—Always
My corn needs rain
So it can grow.
And rain so far
Has been quite low.
But weeds, I find,
Can grow up tall
With scarcely any Rain at all.
—FRANNY FARMER

Despite two heavy rains early in the month, July was on the way to becoming overly dry. An inch below the grass, for example, the dirt is pure powder.

The newly-arrived heat and humidity will likely be followed by showers either Thursday or Friday—possibly both. Slightly cooler and generally fair over the weekend, with no real rain in sight.

girl, they'll play a waltz," says one member of the company, "and sometimes they speed things up to a schottisch, but no rock 'n' roll."

Families from all around Rocky Hill meet at the fair, wander from game tent to food tent and back again, spend their 25 cent admission and a little more on the splendors of the fair, and then collect sheepy children and go home. The fair closes down at midnight with a 1 a.m. session to Saturday night.

Clam-bake in Montgomery. In a grove of trees by the stream that runs through Johnson Moore's farm on Spring Hill Road, the Montgomery Township firemen had a clam-bake last Saturday. It started at noon and went on until 5, and some families came at the beginning and stayed until the end, eating two full meals under Farmer Moore's trees.

There was New England clam chowder and clam fritters, both made by the cook at the Neuro-psychiatric Institute. (He always does the chowder and fritters for Montgomery firemen.) The fritters were fried right on the spot in deep kettles of fat kept hot by a charcoal fire, and some people burned their fingers out of sheer excitement to get in. Next to the fritters were steaming clams, dredged out of the deep kettles and then piled in mountains on huge trays.

The first corn of the season, from South Jersey, was there steaming and ready for the melted butter. (Thoughtful firemen provided containers of melted butter with brushes alongside.) Behind an iceberg-sized piece of ice, stood three aproned firemen serving clams on the half shell. They had melted cups into the ice by placing half-dollars in regular rows, and into each cold cup they laid an open clam.

There was "all the draught beer you can drink" and soft drinks and hamburgers for the children. Some families sat at the long tables under the tent, and some joined their friends under trees—and sent children back to fetch more clams-on-the-half-shell. One clam-full guest distinguished himself by carrying six mugs of beer with one hand.

Somebody brought a deck of cards to pass the time until everybody was ready for another helping, and some teen-agers brought a radio and then found they were too full to dance.

"But Don't Wave!" An outdoor auction in a country town—Hopewell, Pennington, Millstone—brings out whole families on a summer Saturday for what a Princeton auction fan calls "One of the last free institutions in this country."

Families who pack their own picnic lunch and restrain themselves from buying anything do indeed have a whole day of entertainment without paying a nickel.

"Only don't wave to a friend," warns one auction-goer, "or you'll find you've bought a brass dining-room table."

It is not necessary to take lunch, because country auctions are always generously served by the ladies aid societies of local churches who provide sandwiches, hot coffee and home-baked cakes at modest prices.

Some families take their own chairs and stay all day. Auctions usually begin at 10 a.m. and last "until!" The man of the

Worthwhile Facts
On Your Summer Vitamin Needs

EVEN THOUGH THE SUNSHINE and many fresh fruits and vegetables of the summer months are health-giving assets in your life, daily use of vitamins should not be discontinued. Hot weather tends to decrease your daily intake of food, which should then be supplemented with vitamins. Excessive perspiration also indicates a need for B vitamins as a water soluble aid.

THE THORNE PHARMACY offers you vitamins made by manufacturers whose names you can trust. If in doubt as to the proper vitamins for any member of your family, consult your physician.

BUY FROM YOUR REGISTERED PHARMACIST, who stocks only name brands. Despite the high quality of name-brand manufacture, savings are available to you: Buy 100 vitamins—get a 30-day supply FREE.

house buys an entire piece of farm equipment which he badly needs for his 12 by 20 foot tomato patch, and his wife picks up some little pieces of glassware and china. Children roam, say hello to friends (the same families turn up at auction after auction) or curl up in the car to read until parents get tired of bidding and decide to take the hot home.

Next week? Well, there's a square dance in the parking lot of the Craven Lane School in Lawrence Township on Saturday night, July 23. After that, more auctions, carnivals and clam-bakes. After all, that's what summer's for.

PERSONALITIES

Mrs. John R. Lasley, Cherry Valley Road, chairman of the Princeton committee currently playing host to an invasion of young city-dwellers sent here by the Herald-Tribune's Fresh Air Fund. For a heart-warming report on what it means to spend two weeks in Princeton (one young guest wistfully told her hostess, "You know, I could stay longer. . ."), see pages 15-17.

B. Franklin Bunn, 38 Haslet Avenue, member of innumerable business, civic and municipal organizations, and veteran of more meetings called for the public good than the most modern electronic computer could top up, who this week led the Township Planning Board out of a temporary labyrinth into which its members had conversed themselves. Mr. Bunn's statement, which may well serve as a model for other briefly-derailed bodies: "I make the motion that should be made to do the thing we all think should be done."

ROUND UP

It's not serious yet, but a dry spell is with us, a fact somewhat hidden by rainfall totals that read near normal a good part of this month's precipitation came in the form of a cloudburst the night of July 3, and that's of little value to vegetation since it rains so quickly. The second day of the year on which the thermometer topped 90 was last Saturday, when it reached 91 — tea such days are average for a New Jersey summer, with the July shortage to date quite welcome.

FIRE! It was 60 years ago that the cry was answered by Rocky Hill Fire Company Number One with this chemical "engine." Drawn by manpower and rope, it rolled to the scene for many years before it was replaced by a truck, and it is now on display in all the dignity of its retirement, at the fire company's annual summer fair (see page 1). Barney McCloskey (left) used to haul the engine when he was an active fireman. Edward McVaugh, shown in harness with him, has occasionally pulled the engine in parades and exhibitions. The vehicle was made in 1899. (Staff Photo)

COUNTY PLANS OPPOSED
For Road in Lawrence. A petition bearing 133 signatures has been presented to the Lawrence Township Planning Board by residents of Lawrence Township and nearby areas who oppose the announced plans of Mercer County for a cross-country road which would take the through-traffic burden off Province Line. The Planning Board will hold a public hearing on the proposed road this month on a date to be announced later. According to present county plans, the road would be a continuation of the part of County 533 that now begins at Clarksville on Route One and goes to Port Mercer. At Port Mercer, it now forms a "T," with Quaker Road going right and Province Line going left. The county would like to make a cross out of the "T" and cut a road through the land now owned by the Stuart Reed and company.

From there the road would proceed to an intersection with Princeton Pike and thence to an intersection with Route 206. It would then cross Province Line and run further across country to emerge on Rosedale half way between Carter Road and Province Line, near the Rosedale Road entrance to Educational Testing Service.

The signatories to the petition are concerned because the County would like a 70-foot right of way, which is wide enough for a four-lane highway. However, Louis Calvanelli, county planning engineer, says, "We are not about to build a four-lane highway. When the road is built, it will probably be the minimum 24 feet wide. We have specified 70 feet in order to take care of the future."

"White Horse" Road? The road, unnamed so far, but sometimes called "White Horse" because it begins there, has been on the County's Master Plan map since 1946. The map was adopted in 1954. The road has come to the attention of Lawrence residents recently because of hearings in connection with the Lawrence Township Master Plan.

County engineers feel that a new road is a better way to provide access to Route One than a widened Province Line. It would be difficult to widen Province Line, engineers say, because so many houses are already built on that road. The new road, however, would go across land which is largely unoccupied at present.

Mr. Calvanelli points out that, in planning the new road, the County is looking ahead 10 or 20 years to the time when the open fields across which the road would travel will be subdivided and used for housing developments. If property owners do not sell their land (about 13 owners are involved), and it remains in its present state, the road will not be built, he says.

"We have no time table and no priorities," Mr. Calvanelli reports. "We hope we never need the road and we certainly don't throw money away building roads we don't need."

MRS. JONES TO RETIRE
From Hospital Position. Mrs.

Coville Jones, director of the Social Service Department at Princeton Hospital since its establishment 14 years ago, will retire this Friday. After an extended vacation, she will return to hospital work as a member of the volunteer staff.

Mrs. Jones organized the department in October, 1946, and has watched it grow to a division that serves 600 Princeton residents a year as outpatients and more than 300 as inpatients. All this free care is given by Mrs. Jones' department only after extensive investigation and the most exhaustive study of each case. As a result, Mrs. Jones has acquired, over the years, an encyclopedic lines were obligingly erased by the Borough but a decade later the traditional crossover is in as heavy use as ever.

Dave Arden was starring in McCarter Theatre's current summer production, "Over Twenty-One," which Town Topics classed as "an uneven, dated war-time comedy carried by Miss Arden with her caustic and brassy brand of humor" at the Playhouse. It was Claudette Colbert in "Secret Fury," while the Garden offered a rerun of the 1941 hit, "Blossoms in the Dust," starring Greta Garbo and Walter Pidgeon.

The American Veterans Committee, compared in TOWN TOPICS sport pages to "the strutting Philadelphia Phillies," boasted an 8-0 mark as it held first place in the B Softball League. Members included Harry Hazan, Sid Rolfe, Slim Moss, Art Close, Phil Bell, Jim Delano, Ralph Close, Chris Gruber, Tom Hartman and Ernie Stewart. Teams in the quarter-finals of the rained-out men's doubles tennis tournament were Simon Hutter and Jess Epstein, Guy Woodward and Tom Whittin, Bob Gohsen and John Norton, Bayard Johnson and Vic Payne.

TOWN TOPICS carried 12 inches of classified ads (in contrast to more than 300 this week), the Township Committee, noting a 66 percent population gain in the past decade, was concerned over increasing sewage disposal problems. In a nearby community, a fireman who couldn't get enough of fighting fires set a couple himself but never got to them, because police nabbed him at the firehouse warming up the engine before the alarm sounded.

knowledge of Princeton? It has been said of her that she knows more Princeton residents than anyone except the mayor.

The retiring social service director, who incidentally makes her home in Trenton, first became known to many Princetonians when she was chief clerk of Mercer County Selective Service Board Number One. Serving in that post for over four years, she was responsible for maintaining individual records of more than 10,000 residents of seven Mercer municipalities.

In addition to directing the social service department, Mrs. Jones has been active in the Mercer County Chapter of the National Foundation, serving as secretary of the organization. She has also been on the Mercer County Hospital Committee. From 1955 to 1957, she held the office of president of the Soroptimist Club of Princeton.

When Cavillie Jones talks about taking a vacation, she means going deep-sea fishing. The Joneses have a house-boat anchored in Barnegat Bay and they will head for the shore as soon as possible. Her husband, Ralph H. Jones, teaches in the Trenton Public Schools.

Mrs. Jones' position at Princeton Hospital will be taken by Mrs. Grace Fry, who will assume her new duties on Friday.

WHAT'S ON THE AGENDA?

For Township Committee. When Township Committee holds its second regular July meeting Monday at 8:30, it will act on four new ordinances. One will provide for a Trinity Church cemetery on the new All Saints Chapel property. Another will legalize the property transfers made when Mercer County resigned part of Pretty Brook Road, and a third will authorize the paving of a portion of Pretty Brook beginning where the present paving stops. A final new ordinance will authorize the appropriation of $2,000 in consultants' fees for advice on how to finance a sewer master plan, and $600 for a consultant assistant to Township Attorney Gordon Griffin in drawing up proper standards for light industry.

Committee will also consider a letter from Arthur L. Ocheltree of the Ridgeway Heights organization asking permission to bring a sewer trunk line from The Great Road - Ridgeway intersection down The Great Road to the existing Mountain Avenue trunk. Ridgeway Heights would float

RECREATION AREA ASKED

Township Wants Dedication. The Township Planning Board at its Monday night meeting requested the developer of Princeton Country Estates to dedicate three lots to the municipality for recreational purposes. The three-quarter acre lots lie between Terhune Road and the proposed Dodd's Lane and have been reserved for recreational use. In other action on the preliminary plan for the subdivision along Terhune east of Snowden Lane, to be developed by Carl Geiger, the Planning Board required that curbs be placed on both sides of all streets, and sidewalks, on one side of every street except Terhune. This follows the Board's policy of requiring sidewalks on all streets within a mile of a school.

The Board also approved with —Continued on Page 11

bonds for the construction of the sewer and laterals would be installed at the developers' expense. The installation would belong to the Township when the bonds were retired.

In action taken in executive session, Township Committee referred back to the Board of Assessors last week the protest of Snowden Lane and Van Dyke Road residents against their assessments for the paving of Van Dyke.

The proprietor wishes to announce that a selection of fine spirits and wines, both domestic and imported, is now available for your enjoyment on the veranda, and the some are being served in generous proportions accompanied by our special cheese board.

"MAJOR BARBARA" NEXT
 Players to Give Shaw's Comedy. The University Players will offer George Bernard Shaw's "Major Barbara" as the fourth play of their 1960 season. The Shavian comedy about the troubles of a Salvation Army girl with a rich and unscrupulous father is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. next Monday through Saturday.

Starring as the idealistic young woman who hopes to find happiness through love of God and her fellow man will be Joanna Merlin, a member of the cast of the recent off-Broadway production, "The Breaking Wall." Gerald Hiken, who appeared in the Players' production of "The Underpants," will play the rough father who believes money can satisfy all his physical needs.

Also appearing in "Major Barbara" will be Rosemary Murphy, who is featured as Cassandra in this week's production of "The Prodigal." Roger Graef is directing the comedy for the Players.

As a special attraction, the Players are offering two tickets for the price of one for their Monday night openings. Tickets and reservations for these and other performances may be obtained from the University Players, Murray Theatre, Walnut 4-3539.

Not that we have anything against the master of spine-tingling mysteries—it's just that 109 minutes of strained camera angles, gory details, chilling music, implausibilities and engulfing suspense are a bit too much. Admittedly, there is a good story ending which is intended to be a complete surprise. Also, there are two well-constructed women (Vera Miles and Janet Leigh), a taxidermist (Anthony Perkins) with a mother who does not fit the normal conception of what mother should be like, and the necessary paraphernalia for any mystery, such as a sheriff (John McIntire) and private investigator (John Balsam).

Hitchcock's accessories in this production include Joseph Hurley and Robert Clatworthy, art directors, Saul Bass, pictorial consultant responsible for the picture titles, and Bernard Hermann, who put together the musical score. Oh yes, we nearly forgot; "Psycho" takes place in a haunted motel!

Pollyanna (July 20-26) shouldn't alienate anyone short of Scrooge himself. On the other hand, the light remake of Eleanor H. Porter's best-seller won't make many people sit down and think about its message, either. Produced under the notion that what appeals to 12-year olds should appeal to everyone, it is an easy-going story about small-town America.

Hayley Mills has received well-deserved praise for her performance in the title role. The daughter of British actor John Mills, she comes complete with British accent and excuse for it written into the script. Supporting Miss Mills are a number of stars, all with many years more experience, including Jane Wyman, Richard Egan, Karl Malden, Nancy Olson, Adolphe Menjou, Donald Crisp and Agnes Moorehead. They are all dumped into a small town in the Midwest and Pollyanna proceeds to take her toll.

In case you haven't guessed it and haven't seen the advertisements, it should be mentioned that "Pollyanna" is a Walt Disney production and, of course, in color. David Swift both directed and wrote the script. The production is designed to tug at — Continued on Page 6 a few heart-strings, perhaps, but rent none.

NON-PICKFORD POLLYANNA: Hayley Mills makes her presence known as she plays the little role of Walt Disney's "Pollyanna," made famous by Mary Pickford in 1920. Miss Mills will be on the Play House screen beginning next Wednesday.

THE GARDEN

Country Girl (July 1920) won an Academy Award for Grace Kelly in her pre-princess days. Now in Princeton for the third time, it set attendance records which still stand when it first ran at the Playhouse in 1955.

Miss Kelly plays a devoted wife, married to a star ruined by drink (Bing Crosby) and trying to make a comeback through the good graces of a director (William Holden). While it was the performance of Miss Kelly which won the Oscar, that of Crosby is the more surprising. As the self-pitying central character in the screen adaptation of George Ode's play, he is excellent. The only concession to his background was a change in script to make him a musical-comedy star and give him a few songs to sing.

George Seaton both directed and wrote "Country Girl" for the screen. It was produced by William Perlberg. Recommended.

South Pacific (July 13-16) has finally made it to Princeton. Those who haven't seen it but have been enthralled with the music may want to grab the opportunity while they have it—but they should be aware that it isn't up to the show which started its smash-hit run on Broadway in 1949.

In the first place, Miltz Gaylor, although she turns in a creditable performance as Nellie Forbush, can't compare to Mary Martin, and Rossano Brazzi (provided with the dubbed in voice of Giorgio Tozzi) isn't up to the late Eza Pinza. Miss Gaylor's performance in particular lacks the bounce of the original. Aside from these to-be-expected differences, the movie version is, simply, overdone. The color, for example, overpowers: Miss Gaylor appears yellow, blue and pink at different points in the show, while the isle of Ball Ha'i undergoes a series of changes which may send the spectator reeling from the theater.

Luckily, the screen production does little tampering with the well-known musical score aside from shifting the vocalists. Indeed, songs such as "Bloody Mary," "There's Nothing Like A Dame" (with Ray Walton as Luther Bills) and "Ball Ha'i" (with Juanita Hall as Bloody Mary) come out as well as the original. But the overall effect is one of Jetson, unless the viewer happens to be one of those individuals who can't appreciate music without seeing the story that accompanies it.

IT'S NEW To Us

BUT DO WE NEED ONE?

A Raccoon. That is. The only answer to that question is "You never can tell." Personally, we regard the question of need as second to the question of aesthetics: a baby raccoon is one of the most appealing furry animals you could hope to own, and it can be tamed to eat right out of your garbage can—no, no!—right out of your platter.

They tell us at Noah's Ark, 259 Nassau, where they have raccoons for sale these days ($30), that the young raccoon will indeed wash his hands, just the way the folk tale says, if you give him a pan large enough to operate in. He also needs a female to show him how. (A female raccoon.)

The diet of the raccoon in captivity is broad and varied. He will eat vegetables (fruit) try a little brandy over the sugared peaches), meat and milk, and considering his Maryland origin (at least, the Noah's Ark raccoons come from Maryland), he will probably prefer bourbon to Scotch.

From another part of the forest, the Ark has Texas horned toads for $1.98. They had burrowed into some gravel when we saw them, but they seemed docile enough when they were extracted. A Texas horned toad, some four inches long, looks prehistoric and absolutely intimidating, of course, but he is actually a perfectly incredible sort of guy and he loves to have his stomach gently scratched.

Not much larger than the toad is the cotton-eared marmoset, a beast with white tufts trickling out of his ears. He looks belligerent, but perhaps you have to, if you're that small.

We preferred the woolly monkey that clucks like a mother hen and hesitates at the open door of his cage because it's more secure inside than it is outside. He is a tidy monkey, with fur like clipped hair and he could give a lesson in neatness to Lulu, the stub-tailed chimp. She needs a permanent.

The chinchilla was asleep like a dormouse when we paid a call. Nocturnal, you know.

The grabel was awake. A grabel is like a harrier, but with a long furry tail and better manners. There aren't very many grabels around in pet shops and Noah's Ark is proud of the ones it has. Not so proud, however, that it won't sell you one or two.

We like the bulletin board in front of the shop where people advertise for lost rats or offer to give away baby rabbits. When we saw the board, there was a frantic red-chalked offer from a hand-pressed aquarium owner with millions of free Black Mollies to give away.

Don't Spill the Mustard

Next time you roast frankfurters on a stick, or barbecue a squirrel over the grill, set your picnic table with a bag of this new tablecloth from Philip Farkouh's in the Princeton Shopping Center.

But tell your guests not to dribble the ketchup. The cloth, a round one, is made of the finest Alencon lace in drapery. Around its circumference is a panoramic view of Venice, worked carefully in lace by French craftsmen. Farkouh displays it in a 92-inch version for $165, or a 70-inch one for $65.

Now, if your table is along you may prefer (for those barbecue guests) a three-yard cloth of white organdy applied with sprays of leaves and flowers, sometimes in white, sometimes in the palest shades of blue or pink. The border is white linen, joined to the body of the cloth with a scroll and scallop design. The price of cloth and 12 napkins is $165.

cool, dim dining-rooms, an organdy cloth with flower, wood, and a deep band of linen around the border.

These charming cloths come in white with a flower in aqua, pink, yellow or sandalwood. In contrast to the giant cloth we described above with its spray of flowers, (see box), this cloth has a single bloom of color. A narrow piping picks up the flower color and outlines the very trim of the cloth.

For truly informal dining, Farkouh suggests a linen cloth in heavy thick-and-thin weave with a blue warp and white weft, or maize and white. The cloth also comes in solid pink, maize or natural, and it will dry smooth enough to eschew the iron if you hang it carefully from a line.

Linen is used against Belgian mats that display scenes of Venice, London, Paris and even the Taj Mahal in cheerful shades of rose, turquoise or blue. They have foam backs and cost 85 cents.

Other linen mats, without the foam, present stylized branches of bamboo in black, orange and white against a pale green-ripe —Continued on Page 5

Report from THE MAYOR

Princeton At Los Angeles. Many Princeton residents are in Los Angeles this week for the Convention, Borough Council President Richard A. Lester and Mrs. Lester arrived on Sunday.

Working as a page is young James Murray Kimpleton, Jr. of Edgerstone Road, while his Dad, the well-known newspaper columnist, is covering the Convention. Also here is Fred Vandewater for Mutual Radio.

Mr. and Mrs. Thord Lord kept busy with dozens of meetings of the Platform Committee. The Morven residents—Governor and Mrs. Meyer—are working hard greeting the more than 400 Jerseyans at this national meeting.

Princeton and Puerto Rico. Also here, as guests and delegates, are a host of mayors and municipal officials from every state. The Princeton Mayor had a chance to renew his acquaintance with the attractive Mayor of San Juan—Donna Felissa Rincón de Gautier. For 14 years, this dynamic woman has worked tirelessly as chief executive of that great city, often putting in an 18-hour day and seldom taking a day off to rest. Sharing experiences with such a dedicated mayor can be a helpful enterprise.

Mayors Meet. Five mayors met here this week-end, and their towns' populations total nearly 15 million. Five other mayors, meeting here informally yesterday, have census counts totaling much less than 15 thousand—yet all of them, mayors of large towns and small, seem to be faced with much the same problems.

Big Small Town. However the census count comes out, ours is a small town. Nevertheless, its influence is felt everywhere, and almost everyone has had some connection with Princeton.

One example: A retired gentleman spotted our New Jersey license plates in a gasoline station, inquired about our home town, and then proudly identified himself as a resident of Princeton. He moved on to the University of California at Berkeley here and supervised the building program of the University over the past several decades. From him and from many others, the Mayor will bring back pockets full of messages to Princeton people from friends and former neighbors across the country.

Open House. It seems likely that several additional towns will inaugurate "Tell It To The Mayor!" sessions during the coming months. This Mayor looks forward to renewing these informal meetings upon arrival home—there is no better way to measure the concerns and to learn the views of interested citizens.

olive background, with four white napkins to match. The set is $4.95.

Red, olive and avocado circles, like Christmas ornaments, have been arranged on a white linen mat. Inside each circle, waiting to crow at your breakfast, is a roster and around the whole is a red scroll border.

Another linen mat has a toad salad on it. Not from a careless guest, but from the hand of the silk-screener. Still other mats have embroidery or applique against solid lemon, gold, chocolate brown, beige or turquoise linen. Foam-backed plastic mats come in many colors and styles, and you could begin with a solid yellow or toad-colored one with a half-inch boarder formed by a row of stitching. An oval mat has a full-branched tree whose arching boughs from the top of the mat.

The bottom is straight, with scallops artfully "embroidered" on the plastic. A companion mat has a conventional border of fruits in grey against the solid color. These mats come in pink, blue, yellow or grey. You'll like a pale yellow one whose shade has been achieved by mounting a frosted plastic sheet over brilliant yellow foam.

For the bridge set there is a bridge set of Belgian linen with a center diamond of lace and cut-work, and matching triangles in each corner. It's $14.50, but other bridge sets start at $1.58.

You. At Landau's on Wither- spoon Street there is a girdle so small that it fits into a four-inch square pot. It's a girdle that's long, including garters, but it stretches out to a good, firm 14. Kayser's Whapco calls it "Wier Wisp." $3.96. What do you do with the flower pot?

One of the very coolest things in Landau's lingerie department is a Bestform girdle or panty girdle made out of Lycra, which is Dupont's new fibre. Lycra is like rubber in that it stretches, but unlike rubber in that it has no disagreeable hot-weather properties in fact. It is so light and porous that you won't even know it's around you. Pick up the girdle—it's like lifting a handkerchief. Costs $5.96 or $6.96, depending on style, and is machine washable and machine dryable.

To wear under bathing suit or very short shorts, buy the "Fun and Frolic" brief, cut high and short. It's latex. $2.25.

Maidenform, which has sent dressing women into all sorts of odd situations wearing you-know-what, produces for summer the Chansonette, a very light brassiere for travel made out of dacron and cotton for $2.50. News Of The Theatres

NEW PLAY OPENS

"The Prodigal" at Murray, Jack Richardson, a 24-year-old playwright with more skill than years, has fashioned an absorbing play from the ancient legend of Orestes, the reluctant hero. "The Prodigal" opened Tuesday night at Murray Theatre as the third offering from The University Players and it will run through Saturday.

In his re-telling of the legend, Richardson has set Agamemnon, the returning King of Argos, against Aegisthus, the poet-regent who has taken advantage of Agamemnon's ten-year absence in the Trojan war to appropriate both his wife, Clytemnestra, and his kingdom.

Agamemnon is a blunt and ruthless soldier who sees Man as he ought to be and who drives him to die for a principle. Aegisthus prides himself on his humility, and sees Man as he is: the weak pawn of arrogant gods. In between stands Orestes, Agamemnon's son, scornful of his father's legendary heroics, bitter and cynical of principles which could justify Agamemnon's sacrifice of Orestes' sister, Iphigenia, and the death of thousands of men in battle. Orestes is also wryly amused at Aegisthus' pompous poetry and his manipulation of the temple priests and he refuses to take the part of either man against the other.

In his refusal to become involved, he allows his father to be slain. He must then face a world in which everyone expects him to become precisely what he does not wish to be: his father's avenger, that is, a killer who is a hero. In the end he makes of himself the popular avenging hero, "because I am not great enough to create anything better."

"The Prodigal" is largely verbal—almost verbose. As directed by Roger Graef, it moves with stately dignity, which might be a euphemism for slowness of pace, except that the play is so absorbing and its thoughts so well phrased by its author that deliberateness becomes a virtue rather than a flaw.

This is not to say that "The Prodigal" is flawless. Frequently Mr. Richardson lets scenes drag on longer than they should. He has equipped some of his characters with lines like "Oh, if only you had not made me hold the sword, too." And he has placed Orestes' "rebirth" too far from the beginning and too close to the end.

But he has retold, in a thoughtful and skillful manner, a legend which comes close to the quick to modern life, of man's tendency to hold aloof and to remain uninvolved, and to the popular surge toward the heroic man of action. He leaves, at the end, only Cassandra on the stage to observe wryly, that "the stage is now empty and ready for the popular hero that is to come."

Cast in Strong. The leading roles are filled by actors who know their craft. George Segal is properly insouciant and irreverent as Orestes and Richard Hudson, in his early scenes, is a delightful Pyraides. M. Throne (who seems to have no first name) is a tough and weary Agamemnon. Chester Doherty carries off Aegisthus with the proper combination of humility and conceit.

Rosemary Murphy, given the equivalent of star billing on the program, plays a middle-aged Cassandra who weaves baskets and the future with equal skill. She is, possibly, the most professional member of the cast, in spite of an inability to remember her lines. (Orestes has trouble with his, too, but he knows how to make his lapses seem like the pauses in a musing train of thought.) As Clytemnestra, Lucille Patton is more Madam Avenue than Agor, but at least she makes Aegisthus lusts seem believable.

Richard Cumming has composed some bony music scored for trumpet and percussion and nicely adapted to the story. The single act uses lighting most effectively for changes of mood and scene and Betty Matta has done both lights and sets with imagination. Diane Dinon has combined modern and ancient dress, outfitting her soldiers in World War II fatigues and her Greek nautons in empire-waisted robes. Cassandra and Aegisthus are particularly well-dressed.

On the whole, "The Prodigal" is a thoroughly successful production, a refreshing relief after last week's unfortunate episode of "The Underpants," and perhaps hopeful prognosis, if one may paraphrase Cassandra, of the future.

Whose Playgrounds?

"Sometimes it seems as if there are more dogs than children," said C. Edward Christian, Community Playgrounds supervisor, in a statement asking parents to separate the children from the dogs before they send the children off to a playground for the morning.

Dogs frequently frighten young children, and are a disturbing influence on the playgrounds, Mr. Christian points out. He has also cited Borough and Township ordinances regarding dogs, which might be applied in the playgrounds situation, if parents continue to allow dogs to run loose in playground areas. "One angry dog sent home by the instructor in charge, stole a zell-ball on his way out," Mr. Christian reports.

Obituaries

Louis Kaplan, 86, who formerly operated a men's clothing store at 64 Nassau Street, died July 9 at a home for the aged in Trenton. His store was among those razed to make way for Palmer Square.

The husband of the late Tina Ballot Kaplan, he was a member of the Consistory F & AM, and the Blue Lodge of Princeton. He is survived by a son, Herbert G. Kaplan of Levittown, Penna.; three daughters, Mrs. Minna Rose, and Miss Mildred Kaplan, both of Princeton, and Mrs. Herman Dollinger of Long Island; and seven grandchildren.

The funeral was held in Trenton with Cantor Marshall Glazer of Har Sinai Temple officiating. Interment was at the convenience of the family.

Mrs. Sarah B. Vey of Roberts Street, Griggstown, died July 7. The wife of John P. Vey, she was born in Newfoundland, and had lived in Griggstown since 1948. She was a member of Princeton Chapter 91, O.E.S.

In addition to her husband she is survived by a son, Clive P. Vey of Rochester, N. Y.; three sisters, Mrs. Hannah Pitcher of Toronto, Canada, Mrs. Ethel Smith of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mrs. John Robbins of Random, Newfoundland; a brother, Benjamin Smith of Toronto; and one grandchild. The Rev. Robert Smyth officiated at her service, held in Trinity Episcopal Church, Rocky Hill. Interment was in Franklin Memorial Park under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

CARD OF THANKS
The family of the late Jerry Dean Cypress wishes to thank the relatives, friends, neighbors, and others who expressed their sympathy. Also for the beautiful floral tribute and loans of automobiles and all acts of kindness in the loss of our beloved son and brother.

changes the preliminary plan for a subdivision in the "U" of Riverside Drive below Prospect, a final plan for five lots along Riverside Drive East, just below Nassau Street. Again, sidewalks were required where they had not already been indicated, and the Township. The latter action, which was recommended by the Township Committee, is a type of "double insurance" for the municipality.

TWO LOSE LICENSES

One for Speeding Backward. Two teen-age drivers have had their licenses revoked—one after admitting that he put his car in reverse and sped backward, striking a curb and sustaining a flat tire.

Floxy P. Toto 34, 17, of 73 Erdman Avenue, had his license revoked for 60 days following a hearing before Lawrence Township Judge E. P. Potkey. Young Toto denied a charge that he was

GARDEN CLUB TO MEET

For Annual Picnic. The Lawrenceville Garden Club will hold its annual picnic Tuesday at 1 at the home of Mrs. John Hurd, Main Street, in Lawrenceville. Russell Bettes will speak on "The American Style of Landscape Design." Hostesses for the occasion will be Mrs. Charles Hultish, Mrs. Hurd, Mrs. William Pittzinger and Mrs. Joseph Alloyd.

GAIN EXCEEDS LOSS

In Stolen Property Recovered. Police Chief Raymond Mondone reported this week that the value of lost and stolen property which is returned to its owners frequently exceeds the value of property reported missing.

The discrepancy occurs, he said, because a sizeable amount of property which annually disappears is not reported as missing to the police. "For example," Chief Mondone said, "in 1959, $68,886 worth of property was lost or stolen in the Borough. Of this, $43,000 worth was recovered, while an additional $37,200 about which the police had not been informed was also returned to its owners." Chief Mondone said that a majority of the property involved is automobiles.

Chief Mondone also noted an increase in the number of prowler calls received by the Borough Police in recent weeks. He credited the increase to the fact that people leave more windows and doors — Continued on Page 12

Although none of the calls have proven serious, the Chief pointed out that screen doors and screens should be locked to discourage prowlers. If a prowler is spotted, he said, the resident should try to get a description of the prowler and the car, if one is used, and the direction the prowler is heading.

1,000 AT PLAY

In Princeton Playgrounds. Approximately 1,000 children have registered during the first two weeks at the ten play areas maintained in Borough and Township by the Playgrounds Committee. The playgrounds will be in operation until September 2.

At Littlebrook's July Fourth program, Mark Rosso won first place in a vehicle decoration contest, and Charles Crane won first place for bringing in the largest number of correct answers about newly-independent African nations. Littlebrook won a horseshoe match with Harrison Street playground, but lost a practice softball game with the High School, 8-3. Christine Kent won a blue ribbon in the doll contest. John Rossi won the oldest penny contest and Frederick Goetz the "far, the away" stamp contest.

John Vaughan came in first in the Marquand Park spelling bee. Beth Rimakover won the Patriotic Vehicle Decoration contest and Bradley Fane the costumes contest as "Statue of Liberty." Toni and Bobby Hazelhurst won the oldest dime contest and Beth Rimakover and Cindy Combs tied in the doll contest. Marshall Stitt got the most in the peanut hunt.

Gregg Klein's blow won him first place in Erdman Avenue's bubble-gum competition. Richard Dornier is cracker-eating champion. Other Erdman winners are Joan Sassman (dolls); Bradley

WHAT NOW, CHIEF? Princeton Junction volunteer firemen had to look on helplessly for over an hour last Friday night as a boxcar burned on the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Although the New York-bound train was stopped at the Junction at 9:52 p.m., water could not be turned on the fire until 11:05 when it was put on the RCA siding and the danger from the high tension electrical wires was removed. The railway express shipment in the car, valued at about $15,000, was a near total loss, while the car was also extensively damaged. (Town Topics Photo by Howard Schrader)

Snyder (oldest penny); Jean Kienzie (vehicle decoration); Lila S. Sciditler (Archie Mershon (patriotic costumes)).

At the Princeton High School playground, James McKee won the freckles contest and Tony Procaccia won a horseshoe match. Bobby Lappan is the champion sand-castle builder (youngest division). Amy Schoch won the Fourth of July vehicle decoration contest and Richard Volz and Tony Perone won the scavenger hunt. Other prize winners are Deborah Benson (dolls) and Richard Volz (checkers).

Robert Sweeney won the bicycle decoration contest at Harrison Street and Claudia Dupraz won first place in costumes. Joan Stonaker won the doll contest and James Stonaker the "oldest penny" contest. Harrison's softball team defeated Riverside playground, 17-12. Denise Hill is jacks champion at Valley Road and Priscilla Irving is jumping-rope champion. William Turner won a bicycle race and Dennis May produced the oldest penny. Carol Sinkler is dollchampion and Kenneth Turner is bubble-gum champion.

At the new Riverside playground there have been track and field events with Jeffrey York placing first on points in his age bracket, and Paul Riddle first in his. David Crawford is horseshoe champion and Steven Fishbein is ahead in the basketball throw.

BREAST FEEDING SUBJECT Of Childbirth League Meeting. Mrs. Marvin Soffen will be the chairman of a meeting on breast feeding and formula, sponsored by the Princeton Childbirth Education. The seminar will be held at her home, 88 Longview Drive, Tuesday at 8:16.

All expectant mothers interested in these problems are invited to the meeting, and should call Mrs. Soffen at WA 4-4281 for more information.

SWIM CLASSES PLANNED For Physically Handicapped. The YWCA - YMCA and the Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross have completed plans to sponsor jointly a learn-to-swim program for the ambulatory physically - handicapped. Mrs. Anna Reichle, American Red Cross Safety Instructor, and Mrs. Mildred Swartz, Physical Education and Welfare Director of the YWCA, will be in charge of the program.

Classes will meet every Saturday morning from 10:30 to 11:30 at the YM - YW pool, Avalon Place. Instruction will begin on Saturday and run weekly through August 27. Boys and men must be accompanied by a male adult, while girls and women must be accompanied by a female adult. Personal interviews and physical examinations are required.

FUND NETS 1960 GOAL

Approves $124,908 Budget. The Board of Trustees of the United Community Fund has unanimously approved a budget of $224,000 to meet the needs of its 18 member agencies in 1961.

"Since a continually increasing population requires more services and aid for the many needs of youth, families, mental and physical health and recreation, this goal is considered a fairly minimum requirement," said George J. Adriance, budget committee chairman. "It is only about 14 percent more than the amount attained last year."

Except for the Catholic Welfare Bureau, which withdrew from the Fund last month, the member agencies are the same as last year. The separate agencies and their approved budgets: American Social Health Association, $347; Boy Scouts of America, $7,650; Cerebral Palsy Association, $2,000; Child Guidance Center, $10,000; Children's Home Society, $1,600; Council on Social Work Education, $82; Family Service Agency, $26,633; Mental Health Association, $4,000; National Social Welfare Assembly, $100; Princeton Community Homemaker, $4,500; Princeton Girl Scouts, $2,780; Princeton Hospital, $40,000.

Also Princeton Nursery School, $17,714; Princeton Playgrounds Committee, $1,760; USO, $2,052; Visiting Nurse Association, $13,000; YMCA, $35,000; YWCA, $30,600; Council of Community Services, $3,200; General Campaign, $11,500 and Administration, $7,300.

Members of the budget committee are Mrs. Leonard Johnson, Hans Kauffman, Ralph Mason, Paul E. Orr, Jr., Robert Popano, Mrs. Harold Sprout and G. Dykeman Sterling. Fred M. Blaicher is president of the Fund and Clement V. Conole is campaign chairman.

the guidance of Dr. William F. MacCairmont, president of the College, and Dr. H. Torrey Walker, chairman of the Board of Trustees.

A charter member of the Board of Trustees, Dr. Erdman served the college more than 25 years as chaplain, teacher and counselor to Westminster students.

It was 35 years ago in Dayton, Ohio, that Dr. John F. Williamson, founder of the Westminster Choir, expounded to Dr. Erdman his idea for a college where young men and women would be trained to serve churches of all denominations in the field of music.

Fired by the idea, Dr. Erdman returned to Princeton and arranged a conference of the presidents of Princeton University, Princeton Theological Seminary and the governor of New Jersey. They decided to invite the new Westminster Choir College to make its home in Princeton.

Hoping to find a financial backer for the project, Dr. Erdman invited Mrs. J. Livingston Taylor of Cleveland to hear the Westminster Choir, which was then located in Dayton. Dr. Erdman's hopes had only extended to a contribution, but Mrs. Taylor gave instead the entire campus and the four major buildings now occupied by the college.

Dr. Erdman was a Presbyterian churchman, author, teacher and civic leader. He died in Princeton last spring.

OUTING SCHEDULED

By Hook and Ladder Company.

The annual target-shoot and outing of the Princeton Hook and Ladder Fire Company has been scheduled for Saturday at Squatter's Grove. Francis Pace of 3 Levitt Lane is chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, which has planned the affair.

Prizes have been donated by Princeton merchants and are now on display at Hull's Shoe Store. Entertainment and refreshments will be provided.

"IT'S FRESH AIR!"

City Visitors Like It Here. "Princeton is a nice place to visit and I wouldn't mind living here." This paraphrase of the old saw about New York City has been expressed, through word or deed, by 26 young summer refugees from New York City who have been spending the past two weeks in Princeton area homes as the guests of families who signed up with the Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund.

Eighteen more will come later in the summer. The New York newspaper's project is being sponsored here by the Junior Chamber of Commerce with Mrs. John Lashley, Cherry Valley Road, as chairman.

"I don't want to go home," announced the seven-year-old Negro boy who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Rogers, 39 Longview. "I'm going to hide, and then come back when it's dark."

The Rogers also have, besides the seven-year-old boy, a pair of Puerto Rican brothers, ages 6 and 9—and three boys of their own. One of the Puerto Rican children is deaf and dumb and his older brother came along with him as interpreter, but Mrs. Rogers says the deaf-mute gets along —Continued on Page 16

Why KAMMLER Buick-Pontiac is building brick by brick

One word—permanence!

That's the important reason why the new Kammler Buick-Pontiac building on Route 206 across the road from the Princeton Airport is being built of durable brick.

But a progressive, modern automobile service organization must be built of more than bricks and mortar.

It must have enough working space ■ hold the cars being serviced. It must have the modern tools and equipment. It must have scientific devices to search out hidden flaws. It must have men whose lifetime is devoted to expert automobile servicing with a smile.

All of these things are being built—brick by brick—into the new Kammler Buick-Pontiac Company.

After the last brick is in place and the mortar dry—Kammler will be ready to provide you with the most dependable service for your automobile, regardless of model or age. And for Buick and Pontiac owners in the Princeton area, Kammler will have available every approved device for proper and speedy servicing of any Buick or Pontiac car, regardless of age.

Watch those bricks become a monument of fine automobile service.

very well by himself, so long as she watches to see that he does not run into danger he cannot perceive.

"These children need lots of attention and understanding," is Mrs. Rogers' comment on her Fresh Air visitors. "If you are indifferent, or if you ignore them, they are disobedient, but if you give them affectionate attention, they respond marvelously."

Mrs. Rogers' oldest visitor started out by exhibiting a collection of sharp "No's" whenever he was asked to do something. Mrs. Rogers felt that he was probably ignored at home where there are seven children in the family, so she decided to make it up to him with a great deal of attention: reading aloud, going on excursions, examining with interest the lightning bugs, the flowers in the garden, and so on. "It worked," she says, "although he's still a handful!"

BOY UP A TREE: Larry Marham, Fresh Air guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Turner, Trenton, tries a new kind of sky-scraper and decides that the sidewalks of New York were never like this. It's Larry's second summer-time visit to the Turners. Many Fresh Air hosts invite their city guests back for repeat visits, and the guests come eagerly. Only one Fresh Air visitor has been so homesick for steaming sidewalks that he had to go back home.

HEY, LOOK AT THE BIG ONE! John Huller peers at sulphur crystals through a microscope while Mark Bahadurian waits for his turn. John has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bahadurian, 877 State Road, as a Fresh Air guest. The New York Herald Tribune's Fresh Air program has been sponsored in Princeton by the Junior Chamber of Commerce for the past five summers. This year, 56 New York youngsters will visit Princeton in two-week periods.

Bed-time a Problem. The living habits of a city-bred under-privileged child are not those of a sheltered suburban child, and Mrs. Rogers has found that bed-time is one of the biggest differences between the two ways of life. Her visitors were accustomed to retiring around midnight in a lighted room with adults talking or watching television.

They ran up and down stairs in the Rogers home long after bedtime, apparently because they were lonesome. Mrs. Rogers solved the problem by allowing them to sleep downstairs. She found that they calmed down and went to sleep "on time" when they felt the comfort of other people around them.

"We've found the children quite immature compared to others the same age," is the observation of many Fresh Air hosts, including Mr. Ralph Kienzle, 15 Erdman Avenue, who has an 11-year-old girl visitor.

"She plays with dolls with my eight-year-old and has a wonderful time," Mrs. Kienzle says, "but it is no common interests at all with my daughter who is her own age."

Two Weeks Too Short. Like the two Rogers visitors, the Kienzle guest is a Puerto Rican from New York. She speaks English, and is so happy in Princeton that she occasionally says wistfully to Mrs. Kienzle, "You know, I could stay longer..."

The chief glory and wonder of the Kienzle household is the bicycle. The young guest is rarely out of the saddle and the bike is rarely in the garage. Other Fresh Air hosts report a similar infatuation with bike riding, a sport so difficult on the streets of New York.

"It's the simple things we can offer these children that make such a difference," says Mrs. William Turner of Trenton, who has a boy visiting her only child. "More people would invite children if they realized how much we can give: bike riding, for instance, cook-outs in the back yard, Little League ball games and things we take so much for granted. Besides, my visitor lives with his divorced mother and it means so much to him to have a father, even for two weeks."

The every-day round of summer life in Princeton keeps the children occupied. The Walker-Gordon Rotolocator has had a spate of visitors because the classic thing to show a city child is a cow, but harried excursions are kept to a minimum.

The Jaycees gave a picnic Saturday at Washington's Crossing and earlier in the week there was an exciting nature-program picnic at the Lawrenceville home of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. McMahon, where prizes were awarded for collection of rocks.

New Taste Thrills. At this picnic, one boy peered into an ice-cream glass and said, "You've got a leaf in your drink—what is it?" when told that it was mint, he picked it up, sniffed and nibbled like a gourmet trying a new food. Many host mothers find that food is something of a problem, particularly with a Puerto Rican guests who may eat nothing at home but the standard island diet of rice, beans and chicken. Fresh vegetables and fruits are almost impossible to sell at a meal, although Mrs. Rogers reports a fascination with frozen foods. One very small visitor refused to eat anything he had not seen advertised on T.V.

Almost every family says that the children are eager, helpful, polite and cooperative, if high-spirited sometimes. Mr. Robert C. Miller, Princeton Pike, says that her five and eight-year-old girls never fall for "play glasses" and "thank you" although "ain't" comes out almost as often as the amenities.

Hosts who might have had some apprehension about petty thievery have been amused to find that the coin is in the other pocket; many of the young guests arrive with the city child's mistrust of other children, and they refuse to leave their own money around.

IT'S BETTER THAN A FIRE HYDRANT: Keeping cool in a country pool is much more fun than keeping cool in fire hydrant water on a hot city street. Young Deborah Steed of New York City, a Fresh Air visitor to Princeton, feels confident—more or less—but she likes the security of life-belt, buoyant dumb-belle and a rubber float. With Mrs. John Lasley of Cherry Hill Road, Mrs. Debby is her hostess. Mrs. John Lasley of Cherry Hill Road, Mrs. Lasley has one other Fresh Air guest whom she took in when the child's hosts were unexpectedly called out of town. She is chairman of the Princeton Fresh Air program.

"He'll steal it," said one guest flatly of his young host, but after a few days this boy felt trustful enough to leave his nickels out on the table in full view. It is refreshing to these children to find that they don't have to hide their possessions, one mother reports.

Some of the summer visitors will come back to Princeton this winter for Thanksgiving or Christmas. Correspondence between the host and guest families is quite common, and the children are eager to keep lines of communication open. Two weeks is just about the right length of time for a summer visit, most mothers feel, but it's good fun to renew friendships during the winter.

Last year, one Princeton family had as a guest a young man who scarcely said a word during his whole fortnight in Princeton. The hosts were concerned about him, but a letter from his mother set everything straight: "He has been home now for a whole week," said the letter, "and he hasn't stopped talking once!"

SPECIAL DIVISIONS FORMED

By United Fund. Frank E. Taplin, chairman of the Special Gifts Divisions of the United Community Fund, has announced completion of all six sections of his unit. The complement of two of the divisions has been announced.

Hugh D. Wise will head the first of these. George A. Cameron will serve as captain, with David L. Jones, James A. Perkins, E. C. Rose, Jr. and W. W. Stevenson, Jr. as workers. Captain Wiley Critz will work with R. C. Brickley, E. C. Metcalf, W. E. Speers, Jr. and the Rev. W. D. Wagoner.

Captain Joseph Donner will have as workers Sydney Blaxill, Stuart Duncan, T. G. Kane and Peter Lawton-Johnston. Mrs. Robert G. McAllen will work with Mrs. G. F. Hackl, Mrs. F. W. Hubby, H. S. McMorris and Robert Strunsky.

John H. Meyer will head the second of the two announced divisions. Captain Glen Hill of this group will supervise William DeBree, the Rev. Robert Montgomery, William Pollack and Philip T. Smith. Mrs. H. F. Olson as captain will have Mrs. George Bowers, Mrs. M. H. Mesner, Mrs. C. W. Mueller and Mrs. Albert Van Eerden as workers and Captain George G. Otis will work with Joseph A. Buck, T. W. Egin, Alan C. Poole and Thurmond T. Wilkinson. Captain Fred R. Peterson will have as workers W. W. Augustine, Mrs. Arthur W. Coley, G. Victor Davis and Charles Magors.

Mr. Taplin will gather the 127 workers in the Special Gifts Division.

ENTER LIGHT INDUSTRY

As Township Zoning Board Acts, Princeton Township moved a step closer to allowing "light" industry within its boundaries last week as the Board of Adjustment acted favorably on a request for a temporary variance from the newly-formed Princeton Electronics Corporation. If the Township Committee approves the Board's resolution, which seems likely, the electronics firm will become the first light industry in the municipality.

The three-year variance is the first step toward action which would permit light industry on a permanent basis. Township Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman reported at the hearing on Princeton Electronics that the Township Committee believes such industry should be allowed into what is presently the "research and engineering" zone, provided certain performance standards are established. An ordinance to this effect will be prepared after professional consultation on performance standards, such as noise, smoke etc.

In its two-hour presentation before the Zoning Board, Princeton Electronics made it clear that it wanted to settle permanently in Princeton and that it would be willing to meet most any performance standards that are established. Nathaniel Schwartz, secretary and counsel of the firm, explained that Princeton had been chosen after considerable research because it offered a major university and an atmosphere such that "the type of men we hope to bring into the company would be happy to locate here."

As outlined by Dr. William Lynas, founder, principal financial backer and chairman of the board of PEC, the company would occupy the Skillman Furniture building at 178 Alexander Street for its pilot study and research. The immediate staff would number six or seven, climbing to 10-12 at the end of the year to a year and a half, he said.

Permanent Building Planned. The firm would start work on its permanent installation at the end of about eight months to a year, Mr. Schwartz reported. This building, which would be located in the enlarged research and engineering zone next to North Harrison Street, would probably cost about $1.5 million and house some 35 workers.

The firm will begin by manufacturing high-speed diodes, aiming for the computer market. It hopes to expand into other "solid state" (as opposed to the older vacuum tube type) electronic devices and probably will also enter the fields of thermoelectrics (heating and cooling without moving parts) and plasma physics (aimed at the work now being done under Project Matterhorn at the Forrestal Research Center).

Joining Dr. Lynas on the technical side of PEC will be scientists and engineers from several nationally-known electronic firms. The firm is planning a payroll of about $100,000 per month for the first quarter of operation, rising to $450,000 per month by the fourth quarter of operation, Mr. Schwartz revealed.

It will turn the Skillman building at 178 Alexander Street, presently used for selling and re-finishing furniture, into a pilot plant with "snow white" conditions, meaning that the interior of the building will have to be kept completely free from dust and dirt and the temperature and humidity controlled very closely. As Mr. Schwartz put it, the interior will be "more antiseptic than the operating room of a major hospital."

The Alexander Street pilot plant will produce neither noise nor smoke, Dr. Lynas claimed. In fact, he testified that the company will have more trouble with vibrations from heavy trucks on Alexander Street than the Township will with anything produced by the plant.

In granting the temporary variance, the Zoning Board imposed several restrictions which are hints of what may be required in the final ordinance. Most im-portal is the upper limit of 15 employees set by the Board for PDC at its Alexander Street site. Township attorney Gordon Griffin noted at the hearing that a restriction on the total work force is being considered for the ordinance.

The Zoning Board also stipulated that all liquid effluents should meet with the approval of the Joint Sewer Operating Committee and the Board of Health if it is emptied into the sewer, or the Board of Health only if emptied elsewhere. Similarly, all gaseous effluents must be approved by the Board of Health. On the problem of noise, the Board has required PDC to meet the regulations for the "S" (for service) zone in which it is locating Mr. Griffin indicated that it is the Committee's "hope and intent" that specific standards on noise and liquid and gaseous effluent may be established in the final ordinance.

NEW SERVICE OFFERED

By Princeton Employment. The Princeton Employment Agency has been issued a license to act as a representative of prospective employees, making it a complete employment agency. In the past it had been licensed only to serve on an employer-paid fee basis. The firm which has offices at 92-A Nassau Street, has been in operation for about a year. It proposes to expand, opening branch offices in New Brunswick and Burlington.

At present Princeton Employment has "many openings and few applicants," according to operations manager Max Browning. The firm is "trying to specialize in technical, engineering and executive personnel" and lists as its major clients research firms in the area, Mr. Browning added.

PRINCETON BANKER NAMED

To State Association Post, Gilbert C. Turner, Vice-President and Trust Officer of the First National Bank of Princeton, was appointed chairman of the Committee on Operations of the Trust Division of the New Jersey Bankers Association at the division's annual meeting at the Princeton Inn.

For several years the executive head of the First National Bank's Trust Department, Mr. Turner has assumed, with his state post, responsibility for the improvement and development of fiduciary operations in all banks throughout New Jersey.

BUY NASSAU PAINT STORE

Solo Paint New Owner. A complete line of residential, commercial and industrial paint, finishes and paint supplies will be offered by the new Nassau Paint Store at 128 Nassau, purchased by the Solo Paint Manufacturing Company. The firm owns a chain of retail stores and wholesale distribution centers.

In addition to the standard varieties of paint, the store will continue to offer the full range of artists' supplies which it carried for 12 years under its former owner.

The Nassau Paint Store has been owned and operated by William Steinmetz. Under its new ownership, it will be managed by John D. Price, former manager of the Solo Trenton retail store and formerly associated with Sherwin-Williams.

"FROM PEOPLE TO STARS"

New Manager for King's Court, 247 Ross of New York, soon to be of Princeton, has been appointed manager of the King's Court restaurant. The Witherspoon Street luncheon and dining establishment has opened a terrace bar and is now serving cocktails in the terrace and drinks with dinner indoors to the accompaniment of a new FM radio.

Mr. Ross comes to the restaurant business from the theatre. A dancer, director and choreographer, he has staged many industrial shows for such sponsors as Miller's High Life Beer and the American Dairy Association. Industrial shows are productions staged for conventions or salesmen's gatherings. In addition, he appeared for four years as a dancer on the Imogene Coca-Sid Caesar television program.

The work of a theatrical director is not too different from the work of a restaurant manager, Mr. Ross feels, because he is concerned with the management of people. "I have merely moved from people, to people and steak," he says. Mr. Ross is the brother-in-law of Norman Aaronson, owner of The King's Court. He served briefly as manager when the restaurant first opened.

NEW SALES MANAGER

At Turney Motors, William L. Bauer has assumed the position of sales manager at the new J. Turney Motor Company, succeeding Leonard Dunk. The change came just after the firm was given the Chrysler franchise for Princeton.

Mr. Bauer started with Turney as a salesman three and a half months ago, serving as assistant sales manager immediately prior to his promotion. He is a resident of Lambertville.

FOOTBALL: OUTLOOK-1

This is the first of a series of four articles on Princeton football prospects for 1960.

Numerous Positions Are Open. When the Class of 1960 enrolled at Princeton, its reputation as a "football class" had preceded it to the campus. In the fall of 1959, when it proceeded to roll back half a dozen opponents in a row without experiencing defeat, optimism over the immediate future in Palmer Stadium increased.

It's not that an unbeaten freshman team inevitably means an Ivy championship two or three years hence. However, given little more than average material to support it from other classes on the varsity, one really stand-out group of players—particularly as seniors—can be the foundation for a championship season.

For a variety of reasons, the Class of 1960 has gone into Princeton football history as a disappointment. In the face of solid belief that it could lead Princeton into the thick of the Ivy pennant chase, the Tigers lost all three of their climactic November games—by a total deficit of some 37 points.

The Orange and Black finished 4-5, dropping to the wrong side of the 500 mark for the first time in 14 years. Clearly, the bottom had dropped out of the market that had boomed Princeton stock into the upper brackets of the Ivy League.

What Happened? A number of factors contributed to the slide downhill—two of them largely overlooked by many sideline critics. Long before the season began, in fact, actually, two years earlier—injuries had removed the two best linemen from the Class of '60's eligible players.

Jim Stansbury, a fine end offensively and defensively, suffered a slipped disc in his back under an operation in spring of his junior year, but his highly promising football career was over. Frank Schultz, as good a sophomore tackle as the Ivy League had in 1957, played a part of the following year while battling recurrent headaches but eventually had to forego the sport. Thus long before the Tigers reported to Blainstown last September, Stansbury and Schultz were merely highly-regarded names for whose places other players were being groomed.

Injuries also sidelined other key men for lesser periods—the durable Frank Szvetez, who had led the team in total game action for its first two seasons, took part in little more than a third of the Tigers' 1947 plays last year. Dan Sachs' fine sophomore year proved to be the only one of three in which he was fully fit; end Bob Sprague was unavailable for more than two-thirds of the season; Jay Cullen, despite the fact that he played more than the other quarterbacks combined, was not ready for all nine games—and so it went.

A potentially fine backfield, blessed with more passing ability than any Princeton squad had in years, never capitalized on this threat as had been hoped. In a bid to strengthen performance of Princeton teams in the future, freshman coach Jake McCandless last spring was elevated to backfield coach, and will be on the staff at Blainstown in September.

Guards: In contrast to end, this the position least affected by graduation. Glen Allgier, a willing but light (170 pounds) was used in occasional relief of Stan Shaughnessy. Barry Babes, a striking member of the 1960 freshman team, never rose above third place on the varsity depth chart and saw action last fall in only 47 plays.

Center: Frank Szvetecz and Wen Kim, the latter a real lifer, were for the Tigers in 1959 when injuries persistently sidelined Captain Szvetecz. Kim, who had thoughts of giving up the sport, did not report for the start of practice but actually logged more time (575 plays to 471) than Szvetecz. Depth will be a problem, here, too.

Backs: Only three, but three extremely hard to replace. At quarterback, Jay Cullen is gone, after having developed well in his senior year and seeing more action than any member of the secondary save Mike Ippolito. Ippolito graduated as a fullback, after having broken into the varsity in his sophomore year as a wingback and shifted to quarterback in his junior year. A triple-threat, his versatility and durability will be sorely missed.

Tailback Dan Sachs, who might well have set the Tigers afire for three straight seasons had his achievements in his sophomore year been repeated. After twice scoring three touchdowns in a game (against Cornell and Dartmouth) and winning an all-Ivy berth, he was continually slowed by injuries which affected his performance. Last fall, junior Hugh Scott led him in average yards gained per carry, in passing and in points scored.

The Class of 1960 was a dream team as freshmen, and continued to be considered in much that same light until it was time to pick up the pieces of the disappointing season that marked its senior year. Princeton's problem is that despite the lack of success last fall, 1960's graduation has created a major rebuilding chore that will require a long time to solve.

Next Week: The Sophomores.

DOROTHY KATZ WINS

In Tennis Tourney, Mrs. Dorothy Katz won the Ladies' Singles Tennis Tournament by defeating Mrs. Lillian Ashley, 6-0, 6-2 on the Princeton University Courts last week. The two finalists were among a field of 24 entries in the week-long tourney.

In the semi-final round Mrs. Katz downed Linda Corlette, 6-3, 6-0, while Mrs. Ashley topped Jermain Mueller, 6-4, 6-2. Richard Swinnerston, director of the YMCA community tennis program, announced that a record number of 50 contestants is currently participating in the men's singles tournament, which will conclude Friday.

The next tournament for mixed doubles will open on Monday and continue through the week. Entries for that competition are now being received. All entries may be made at the courts or at the YMCA offices and are due by Saturday at noon, before the tournament begins.

A change in plans calls for both men's and women's doubles to begin on Monday, July 26. The —Continued on Page 27

WATER COMPANY WINS

In YMCA Junior Baseball League, The Princeton Water Company team won a pair of games last week to take possession of first place in the YMCA Junior Baseball League after one week's play. Paced by Jeff Sears' two safeties, the Water Company squared edged Bowers, 6-5, in the first contest of the season. Later in the week the Water Company downed Nassau Oil, 7-3.

Vince McCord got credit for both victories. In the second game, he fanned 13 batters. Earlier in the week, Nassau Oil routed Matthews, 11-4, behind the pitching of Ricky Vonnack.

Matthews trounced Bowers in their second game of the week by a score of 11-1. After the first week of play the Princeton Water Company was in first place with a 2-0 record, followed by Matthews and Nassau Oil with identical 1-1 marks. Bowers, sporting an 0-2 record, was last.

B. E. Siegferson, Jr., YMCA Baseball Commissioner, announced last week that the Princeton Water Company had joined the three other sponsors in providing the youth circuit with financial support. Sixty-four boys are in uniform for the 1960 season.

SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED

For Hun School Football. An eight-game schedule for the 1960 football season has been announced by the Hun School. The Hun eleven, coached by Hawley Waterman, will open its season on October 1 in a contest with Pennington Prep.

The remainder of the schedule: Oct. 8, Perkiomen, home; Oct. 24, Germantown Friends, away;

Mosquitoes not Biting

The pleasant, cool weather prevailing in the area has been agreeable to humans but frustrating for the mosquito population. A long rainy spell, with humid weather could, however, mean a veritable onslaught of the winged insects. The Mercer County Mosquito Extermination Commission is ready for such a bad-weather break, and has been working hard draining stagnant water and spraying polluted areas. Harold Black, the county's chief mosquito fighter, suggests that swimming pool owners drain their pools when the circulating system is turned off for any period over a week as an anti-mosquito measure.

Any source of stagnant water is a prime breeding place for the pests. Mr. Black pointed out, urging that no containers of water be allowed to stand unemptied for any length of time. Mosquito extermination has been proceeding in the county since March, with pools and ponds sprayed first and now the 11,000 catch basins on streets and highways being treated. A five percent solution of DDT in fuel oil is used.

Oct. 22, Tower Hill, home; Oct. 28, Friends Central, home; Nov. 4, Pingry School, away; Nov. 12, George School, away; Nov. 18, Delbarton, home. Captains for the coming season are Alan Landis and David Savage, both seniors.

ARCHERY CLASSES SET

Will Use New Course. Registration is now open for the Archery Classes of the Police Youth Program, scheduled to start the first week of August. The classes will be held on a new range constructed by the police and volunteer instructors to National Field Archery Association specifications.

Beginners' and junior division classes will be held at 6:30 Tuesday and Wednesday evenings with those for intermediate and senior archers scheduled for Friday evenings and Saturday afternoons. Tournaments will be held at the conclusion of the six-week program.

The new archery range on River Road opposite the armory includes a building donated by Richard Conger of Greenhouse Drive, Bowers Express Company, The Institute for Advanced Study and Jack Schuss, Opposum Road, Skillman, armed with equipment and machines to speed construction of the course.

Interested individuals may register for the program at either Township or Borough police headquarters. There is no charge, and all equipment will be provided.

News Of The CHURCHES

THEOLOGICAL INSTITUTE OF PRINCETON
300 Attend Seminary Program.
Over 300 ministers and laymen are participating in the 18th annual Institute of Theology, which began Monday at the Princeton Theological Seminary.

The program has as its theme this year "The Nature of the Christian Ministry."

Included on the conference schedule are 12 elective courses, a series of lectures on the "Challenge to the Church," an evening preaching series, and several discussions. Robert M. Hoag is serving as director of the Institute, while Prof. J. Christy Weimer is chairman of the Seminary's faculty committee on the Institute of Theology.

Dr. James I. McCord, president of the Seminary, opened the institute Monday with an address on "The Theological Dilemma of the Protestant Minister." Next Monday, Dr. Robert J. McCracken, pastor of the Riverside Church of New York City, will deliver a special convocation address.

The faculty of the Institute numbers 17, including Dr. Hubert N. Alyea, professor of chemistry at Princeton University, and Dr. Wilbert J. Eversen, Dr. Samuel W. Blizard and Dr. Donald MacLeod, all of the Seminary faculty. Other faculty members include Dr. Eugen Carson Blake, State Clerk of the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church, to Dr. Andrew Chalmers, executive secretary of the National Christian Council of West Pakistan.

BULLETIN NOTES

Dr. Andrew Gih, founder and director of the Evangelical China Fellowship, will speak at 8 p.m. this Thursday at the Western Presbyterian Church, through the Fellowship. Dr. Gih has established schools, orphanages and churches in eight Far Eastern countries. He was honored by the Nationalist Chinese government for his work in directing the rescue of war orphans and relief during the Sino-Japanese war.

The Deacons of the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church will sponsor a square dance on Saturday night, July 23, in the parking lot of the Crayton elementary school in Lawrenceville for the Church Youth Center (in case of rain). Horary Leslie of Princeton will be the caller and refreshments will be available. Tickets may be obtained from Frank Duxton, George Duxon, Jr., Charles Haulthall Jr., Ed Striffler, Raymond Allen, Burton Weissbecker, Harold Johnson, William Pughett, Arne Booth, Joseph Henry, Henry Keller and Raymond Souders Jr., or by calling TW 6-666.

Three young people from Lutheran of the Messiah will leave Sunday for a week at Upsala College, East Orange, studying how to direct youth activities more effectively. They are John Bodiger of 200 Hamilton Avenue, president of the Youth League; Christine Rose of 92 Clover Lane, secretary of the Youth League; and Nancy Goetz of 85 Magnolia Lane, chairman of publicity.

Mrs. Kenneth L. Maxwell of 208 Laurel Circle is among the 400 delegates attending the seventh annual Women's Conference of the American Baptist Assembly this week at Green Lake, Wis. The conference is designed to train women to become more effective leaders.

SPORTSMEN WIN BIG ONE
In a contest which would have resulted in a first-place tie had runner-up Plainsboro won, the Sportsmen defeated their closest pursuers, 2-0. Harry Kahny was credited with a one-hitter in the game Tuesday night, with Dutch Chambers, the loser, yielding four hits and single runs in the first and third.

The Sportsmen also defeated Leo's during the week by a 7-1 count, but lost to fast-moving Green Gables, 3-1. Joe Fisher's one-hitter cooled off the pacesetters, who collected nine blows—the big one John Cardoner's triple with the bases loaded. Hopewell still also had a triple, while Bill Cooper went two for three.

Green Gables went through the week unbeaten, blanking the league's 2-0, on Thursday, as Fisher pitched a one-hitter, and trouncing Circle Esso, 9-2, on Tuesday. Before losing to the Sportsmen, Plainsboro picked up a 7-0 forfeit victory from Circle Esso and three days later, hung 10-4 beating on the same team.

The above standings do not include Tuesday's game between Sannino's and Teague's which was unreported at press time. The league has voted to play a fourth round, thus postponing the playoffs until August.

PAC STILL HUNTING

For First Victory, The Princeton Athletic Club goes after league-leading Hightstown, burying this Thursday at 6:15 on Maris Field still hoping to break into the victory column. Runs are scarce for the last-place Princetonians, who dropped a game to Hightstown-Cranbury last Thursday 6-2 and then were blanked, 1-0, by Montgomery on Tuesday.

John Mitchell was the loser in the shutout, watching the run score on a fielder's choice and a pair of costly infield throwing errors. Tom Petrone collected two of the PAC's four safeties.

Hightstown-Cranbury replaced Montgomery in the league lead as the week began. South Brunswick was the runner-up, with the PAC now bogged down with an 0-4 record.

TIE IN POLICE LEAGUE

As Post 35 Wins Two Taking both its games in the past week, Princeton Post 76, American Legion, raised its season's mark to 6-2 and moved up a first-place tie with Engine Co. No. 3 in the Police Youth League. Victims of the American Legion engine were the Mercer Engine Club (by an 8-3 margin) and Hook and Ladder, 2-2 to 3.

The Eagles also moved up by winning twice, defeating Hook and Ladder, 11-5, and trouncing Engine Co. No. 1, 3-3. The Sportsmen split, conquering Engine Co. No. 1, 1-17, but dropping a close contest to Engine Co. No. 3, 3-1.

Battling stars of the week included Ken Turner, who hit home run to become the winning pitcher for the Sportsmen over Engine Co. No. 1, and Tony Pirone of Post 76. In the one-sided victory over Hook and Ladder, he collected four hits, including a triple in four times at bat.

THRILL TO A NEW EXPERIENCE

Makes nail care
a pleasure!

with Diamon-Deb NAIL DRESSER

There's a new thrill in nail care in store for you when you glide the feather-fine DIAMON-DEB Nail Dresser over your nails. Never before have you experienced the swift, yet gentle shaping action a level abrasive surface composed of countless tiny gem crystals can give to fingers or toes.

STOP NAIL SPLITTING AND PEELING!

What's more — Diamon-Deb prevents and corrects splitting and peeling nails. The secret is in the exclusive "DIAMALITE" surface that has no harsh edges which leave tiny indentations on nail ends, or cause nail layers to separate. No scratching or scraping or shock to sensitive nerves. And the pure nickel metal with its "DIAMALITE" surface is sanitary — can be sterilized without affecting its permanent rustproof surface. Works equally well whether nails are steel hard or paper thin, too! Essential in cases of "problem nails" to preserve the nail benefits gained from taking Internal preparations.

Come in and try this professional proven and endorsed manuring miracle — particularly if you have a nail problem! Available in 3 sizes: 4-inch purse or pocket size $1.00; 6-inch general purpose size $1.25; 8-inch Professional model $1.50.
